

Drug Prior Authorization List

Why do some drugs require prior authorization?

Prior authorization is a tool to ensure the appropriate use of certain drugs and allows us to determine if a drug meets the medical necessity requirements of your policy.

Who makes the prior authorization decisions?

Physicians and pharmacists at your health plan or at one of our partners, Diplomat or Express Scripts. The list to follow specifies who performs the review and makes the decision.

Why am I sometimes asked to use a different drug than my doctor prescribed?

If you go to the pharmacy to have your prescription filled before getting prior authorization when required, your pharmacist may tell you about other medications that may be equally effective but don't require prior authorization. If this occurs, contact your doctor to ask about changing the prescription to the other drug. If your doctor approves, the pharmacy can immediately fill the prescription.

What information is used by the physician or pharmacist in the decision-making process?

Medical records describing the patient's condition and prior treatments, FDA approved labeling for the requested treatment, published and peer-reviewed scientific literature, and/or evidence-based guidelines.

Where can I view or obtain a copy of the prior authorization or step therapy criteria?

For drugs reviewed by Diplomat, you can call 1-888-515-1357 or access the current prior authorization criteria online at www.diplomatpharmacy.com/criteria. For drugs reviewed by Express Scripts, please call 1-800-753-2851 to speak with a prior authorization specialist for more detailed information.
